

THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN.

The issue of June 5 will contain the usual large amount of interesting and instructive matter pertaining to topics of the day, prepared especially by well-known local and Western writers. Among other special features will appear the following:

GENERAL PEACE; by General Adair, Daugherty, and others; also an interview with Gen. Grant.

An interesting sketch.

OREGON WAR PAPERS; by W. G. Long.

A history of Wright's campaign in Eastern Washington which resulted in the defeat of the Indians.

A BRAVE DEED; by Elizabeth Sturge-Poole.

The story concluded. The name of the author is an equally sufficient guarantee of its accuracy.

A MAD HUNTER; by Sam L. Sawyer.

Continuation of the Klamath case in Oregon. In this writer's well-known realistic style.

WALDEIN-GOTT'S LETTER; the very interesting and graphic collected by the "Oregonian," correspondent at the National Convention.

HOMESTEAD ACT; by Dr. C. L. Smith.

A short and interesting talk on important matters to citizens and visitors on Mrs. Chevalier's Turbine Heretic.

ADAMS' ANSWER; wherein W. L. Adams replies to statements made concerning his letter to the "Oregonian."

DRUGGISTS' DONATION; what the old world druggists and what manufacturers are doing at the present time, most readily told us by their clever writer, Max O'Neill.

For the best literature, Poetry and Correspondence read THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN.

THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN is connected by the telegraph with the Great News Centers of the Nation, enjoys the Associated Press, Financial News, and the Tribune, and is also in touch with the Tribune and in touch with the organs of the world, thus giving the Sunday Oregonian a wide and reliable scope of subjects to the city and elsewhere, read THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN.

The Sunday Oregonian can be read on every member of the family with pleasure and profit.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY.

The Unstinted Praise—Address by Penney, Butler, John Myers and Others.

The democrat held a grand rally at the plaza last night, Judge J. E. Kelly presiding. Sylvester Powers was the first speaker. He reviewed the present condition in a very careful, logical manner. He advised the people to improve the mouth of the Columbia, the Willamette, also the building of locks and canals at the Cascades and The Dalles, and a portage roadway from the Dalles to Celilo, so we could be free competition between Portland and Astoria, Oregon. A portage roadway, he said, could easily be built by the state. There was $75,000 worth of taxable property and a two million dollar assessment, which would materially add to the prosperity of all sections of the state, including Portland, and largely stimulate our manufacturing enterprises which were now languishing. He cited the case of the state of California, which on its part had had to go to the state nine years after its completion. The speaker then gave railroad land, a fair share of his attention, and favored giving these lands away. Next, the speaker spoke of the question of federal taxes, who should collect it as a very erroneous system, for the reason that the poor man paid under it a large tax on all the state, the clothing he wore, etc.

Mr. Penney, of the firm of Penney & Co., then spoke, prefacing his remarks in this regard with some quite flattering to Cornelius as a private citizen and a neighbor. He claimed, however, that Col. Cornelius, while in the state, had not done much for the progress of the country. In this bill was passed that the city of Portland pay to Ben Holladay $100,000 to assist him in building a railroad from Portland to McMinnville. Cornelius worked and voted for that bill, and Gov. John Evans, and voted for this vote, which got in so late the senate couldn't pass it on, so the matter had to be put over until the next session in 1872. Mr. Penney then spoke of the right of the people of Oregon to have a bill introduced by the legislature of the state of Oregon, how they run the road into the town of Cornelius and left East Forest Grove and Hillsboro, and when the voters of Cornelius voted in favor of the bill, or not the $100,000 bill was notwithstanding the governor's veto, Cornelius was the only member voting in favor of it. The speaker then gave a little of his attention to the Chinese, and finished by alleging that to 1872, Col. Cornelius belonged to the know-nothing party.

N. L. Butler, candidate for congress, followed. His remarks were mainly devoted to the labor movement, and the rights of the workingmen. John Costello, candidate for measure, made a short address. He denied that when he before filed the office his resignation was asked for, because he had not, and it seemed he would work for the measure.

John Myers, of Clackamas, was loudly called for and came to the front. He made an appeal for his friend Butler, who said he would come forward with his majority. Now he gave his attention to the Chinese. The speaker then alleged that they had all been made by the democratic. They built the postoffice, insurance, steamship, state house, etc. The republicans opposed the measure. The western portion of the legislature was called which of course Governor Moody should have appointed a United States senator and allowed the people to make a selection afterwards.

There were some spoken on the live issues of the day, after which the meeting adjourned.

STATEMENT FROM MR. PAUL SCHULZE.

PORLAND, June 4, 1886.

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Referring to an editorial paragraph in THE OREGONIAN of the 2d inst, charging me, as an agent of the N. P. R. R. Co., with supporting politics in Oregon and with taking an active part in the present political controversy, permit me to state that you have been misinformed and misled.

The management of the N. P. R. R. Co. has taken, and is taking, no part whatever in the present political controversy. We do not desire to be dragged into political controversies, and the company has nothing to gain and nothing to lose in the approaching election.

In my own action, your informant has not only made a statement which I am compelled to repeat: "These are plain words. They are intended to be plain. There is just one proper way of dealing with such contumelious and that is to characterize them."

I have called on him, informally, a few, and I have the evidence in my possession to prove him each by his own lip.

Believing that you have no desire to misrepresent me, I will, in this space, trust you will give this the due consideration, prominence which I have given the accusation.

Respectfully, PAUL SCHULZE.

DE. SCHULZE FOR GOLDSMITH, JR.

PORLAND, OR., June 4, 1886.

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It seems to me that all the offices to be filled next March, not one more important to the welfare of the state than those of attorney-general, that at that time, the attorney of what name is it to try to secure better legislation and thus better laws, if we cannot be so forced, the laws we already have? And how can they enforce it without an honest, earnest, fearless and unselfish, as well as able, able public prosecutor?

Had an absolutely perfect code of laws, it would be enforced, good and noble, faithfully, if enforcement is left to those who are under full control of the Honor Guard? Why take justice out of their hands, and give it to contractors of the N. P. R. R. Co., who are stripping men out of this county with the ostensible object of making money? Why not let the people have the real object to prevent them from voting the democratic ticket at our election next Monday, and then let them be sent to the Cascades, to be shipped over the O. & R. R. Co.'s line to some place in the Cascades. Whether they are going to do this, or not, I do not know, but I find that they are not asked about their politics. Very truly yours,

PAUL SCHULZE,
MR. GOLDSMITH'S REPLY.

OFFICE OF THE DEMOCRATIC / STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE, / PDX, PORLAND, OR., June 4, 1886.

Paul Schulze, Esq., Present: Dear Sir—An appeal has been made to me for this date, to state that we are taking any action or any part in our present political campaign, either on one side or the other. We have been, and are still, supporting the Northern Pacific railroad company. I will ask, however, that you do not publish this, as it may fall into another part of the field, or another party against any ticket in the field, or whether you have any objection to the publication of the fact that the Northern Pacific railroad company or any of its officers or agents in this political campaign.

I am, however, writing entirely about from the political arena, and I know that the management of the Northern Pacific railroad company does not want to be drawn into political controversies, and that the Northern Pacific railroad company has nothing to gain and nothing to lose in the approaching election.

Assuring you of my high consideration and esteem, I am, very truly yours,

PAUL SCHULZE.

THE OFFICE OF PROSECUTING ATTORNEY.

INDEPENDENT NON-PARTISAN JUDICIARY.

PORLAND, OR., June 4, 1886.

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The action of a large number of independent voters of the fourth judicial district, in placing in nomination Judge Seneca Smith for re-election and choosing Judge E. D. Shattuck and the Hon. John C. Callan for the positions of circuit and county judges is an intelligent and thoughtful consideration of all good citizens, irrespective of party lines. It must be admitted that judicial officers should be as nearly as possible separated from all parties, since corporations or designing individuals who seek to profit by judicial decisions or patronage, should be entirely cut off from the bench.

John was defeated for a purpose by a few individuals who have controlled republican nominations in this county for years past. He will choose his hearers to partake of his number of business men and taxpayers of the county.

Judge E. D. Shattuck's election is conceded to be non-partisan, and, on legal attainments, his unimpeachable record, and his entire life unquestioned by all who have the pleasure of his acquaintance. John (John) Shattuck, of course, has received the endorsement of the people, and the support of a large number of Republicans who are desirous of electing a non-partisan judge, who is not a householder, economical administrator of county business. His record as an honorable, upright citizen is beyond question. He was born and raised and educated by his country, and is the man of the world. His brother, Capt. Robert Callan, is a graduate of West Point. He served his country for a quarter of a century, losing his leg by a cannon ball at Bull Run, and serving in the battles of Richmond in 1864. Judge E. D. Shattuck, a candidate for re-election, has had some office of greater or less profit for the past eight years, and has been admitted to the bar. In fact, it is felt among us that his legal attainments would be unappreciated without an office, especially judicial.

His intimate relation with the Hon. Jo Simon, who is a noted republican orator, is well known. He is the author of the "Oregonian," and his friend that he was "standing in" with Jo Simon, caused a careful examination of the circuit court records indicate that out of ninety-one divorce cases he had been referred to the Hon. N. D. Simon, brother of the above-mentioned Simon. It is claimed to those who have examined to believe that the Simon reports are a perfect score; that scandal, vulgarly and household language, are bold to bold for the times, and that justice is a secondary consideration.
